

You would think that with all the lotions, potions, sprays and aerosols that are on the market today that cleaning would be a very simply task by now. While it is certainly true that cleaning has come a long way since Granny's time, the amount of chemicals we now use in and around our homes is quite frightening. Do we really want the place that is supposed to provide us sanctuary and safety to be filled with toxic chemicals that can do us harm? Maybe Granny had it right back in her day. Maybe it is wiser to use products right out of our food cupboards to clean our house with. After all, if it's safe enough to eat, it has to be safe enough to clean with. I thoroughly enjoyed writing this book because I learned so much about cleaning with safe, nontoxic items and even foods. If you want to save money and have your house, clothing and even shoes looking newer and smelling better than they have in years for pennies on the dollar this book is for you. Enjoy!
