

Leonard Stegmann's latest collection of humor essays, quizzes and nostalgia explores such topics such as what it's like to boo a wheelchair-bound sports legend, cooking fried liverwurst, discovering udder cream and why geese are truly nature's most hideous creation. This book is packed with pages and pages of Leonard's dubious wisdom and questionable insight, and certainly contains more of his writing than any one person should be subjected.

Mercury orbits the sun once every 88 Earth days. So one year on Mercury is 88 Earth days. But a day on Mercury is longer than an Earth day.

While earth takes days to make one circuit, the closest planet, Mercury, takes only 88 days. Poor, ponderous, and distant Pluto takes a whopping years.

Mercurian Year: A year on Mercury takes Earth days; it takes Earth days That point will return to the same position in three rotations of the planet. So how do we define one day and one year on a planet? Mercury is the closest planet to the Sun and so has a smaller orbit path – it takes just 88 Earth days.

Mercury is the smallest planet in our solar system and is known for its short years, long days, extreme temperatures and weird sunsets. Mercury is the closest planet to the Sun and due to its proximity it is not easily seen except during twilight. For every two A year on Mercury is just 88 days long. Like the other planets in the solar system, Mercury was born about billion years ago, condensing from the swirling ring of dust and gas left. Mercury is the planet closest to the blast furnace of the Sun. It's a small planet, only slightly larger than our Moon. Its day is nearly as long as its year . At high .
