Definition of retribution - punishment inflicted on someone as vengeance for a wrong or criminal act. "In its purest form, an act of retribution provides symmetry. The rendering payment of crimes against the innocent. But a danger on retaliation lies on the furthering cycle of violence. Still, it's a risk that must be met; and the greater offense is to allow the guilty go unpunished." Answer: The law of retribution, also called the law of retaliation or lex talionis, was part of the Old Testament Law given to Israel through Moses. Retribution was.

Retributive justice is a theory of justice that holds that the best response to a crime is a The theory holds that when an offender breaks the law, justice requires that he or Retribution is different from revenge because retributive justice is only. Retribution is based on the concept of lex talionis "that is, the law of retaliation. At its core is the principle of equal and direct retribution, as expressed in Exodus as "an eye for an eye." Destroying the eye of a person of equal social standing meant that one's own eye would be put out.
