

The A Shau Valley was the stronghold of the NVA. In order to prevent surprise attacks on US forces as they were pulling out of Vietnam, NVA movements had to be pinpointed. That dangerous job fell to Major Alex Lee and the Marines of the 3rd Force Reconnaissance Company. They acted as the eyes and ears for Lt. General Herman Nickersons III MAF. Each time one of Lees small teams was airlifted into the field, no one knew if the day would end violently. But whether tracking NVA movements, recovering downed airmen or making bomb damage assessment, these men never forgot who they were and why they were there. Here is their heroic story.
