

About the Book: Lieber, by Newtown author and artist Patty Barkman, weaves the story of her long marriage to Leon Barkman with her own autobiography and fascinating memories of the couple's travels and travails, as well as their richly colored friendships. The book also reveals Patty's wrenching experience of the Sandy Hook massacre, which followed Leon's death by 83 dark days. As two young adventurers and iconoclasts come together in Salzburg in 1965, a story of love and loss unfolds with wit, joy, piercing grief, and moving accounts of Patty's highly attuned perceptions of natural phenomena and beauty. As Newtown seeks to heal itself so, too, does the author. Lieber is her gift to all those who suffer loss, as well as a poignant expression of hope and spirit. All profits from the sale of this book will go to the Newtown Caregiver Cause, as a tribute to those who have given selflessly to help others. Flap: Patricia Barkman, a Newtown resident also known as Aunt Pat and Granny Pat among other names, was inspired to write this book in August 2012, by a young boy who admired her paintings and asked, "Are you writing a book?" The book continues from that experience and others at the Appalachian Mountain Club Echo Lake Camp, through the sudden death of her husband in September, and the Newtown catastrophe in December 2012. She was Granny Pat to a child who died in the Sandy Hook shootings. Through the love from friends and family and her love of art and nature, she recounts her own past and the many people and places that have enriched it. The residents of Newtown have differing points of view on guns, on whether or not to leave town or stay to be part of a powerful source of creativity and community. She records these stances as well as descriptions of some of the characters behind each point of view. While she relates her stories with humor and unusual detail, she leaves it up to the reader to determine how best to grieve such huge losses. It is a love story of two old people as well as the story of youth.
