

Peggyony-Po is no ordinary sailor boy. From the time he was in burlap booties, he could climb the mainmast faster than you could say there blows! He can tie a knot to rival any of the crew and swim more swiftly than a dolphin. But the most unusual thing about Peggyony-Po? He was carved from the piece of driftwood that saved his father, Galleon's life after he tried to capture Cetus, the biggest, meanest whale of them all. Ever since the day Galleon wished upon the Northern Lights and Peggyony-Po magically came to life, the boy has vowed to seek revenge on Cetus. And now, with the whole ship's crew betting for or against him, Peggyony-Po sets out to do just that. Set on an 18th century whaling ship, this is a swashbuckling original tale by an award-winning team.
