

General Philip Henry Sheridan (1831-1888) was the most important Union cavalry commander of the Civil War, and ranks as one of Americas greatest horse soldiers. From Corinth through Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge, he made his reputation as a man of courage and efficiency; after his defeat of J.E.B. Stuarts rebel cavalry, Grant named him commander of the Union forces in the Shenandoah Valley. There he laid waste to the entire region, and his victory over Jubal Earlys troupes in the Battle of Cedar Creek brought him worldwide renown and a promotion to major general in the regular army. It was Sheridan who cut off Lees retreat at Appomattox, thus securing the surrender of the Confederate Army. Subsequent to the Civil War, Sheridan was active in the 1868 war with the Comanches and Cheyennes, where he made the now famous remark the only good Indians I ever saw were dead. An excellent account of the Civil War and the Indian Wars that followed.
