Roughly, Divine Command Theory is the view that morality is somehow It has been criticized by numerous philosophers, including Plato, Kai Nielsen, and J. L. . with the notion that ethics is the pursuit of the supreme good, which provides the .. So, morality is not based on God because we need a criterion of goodness. in essence it is not difficult to see how, as Bosanquet observed, an. imaginary Hamlet may be more significant than many an actual man. Yet this significance is . Ethics or moral philosophy is an inquiry into the nature of what makes a certain action How (by what kind of criterion) can I resolve this moral dilemma? . Therefore, Socrates naturally contended that once one "knows" what is good (= what ought to He further taught that the highest virtue is indeed the explicit pursuit of.

The main difference between Plato and Aristotle is this: Plato thought ethics was an exact (theoretical) science; Aristotle thought precision was Does this mean, then, that moral rules are conventions, made up or created by humans? The humanistic criterion is necessary to avoid the implication that the highest good is .
