

Excerpt from Travels and Works of Captain John Smith, Vol. 2: President of Virginia, and Admiral of New England, 1580-1631 It might well be thought, a Countries so faire (as Virginia is) so tractable, would long ere this haue beene quietly possessed, to the satisfaction of the adventurers, and the eternizing of the memory of those that effected it. But because all the world doe see a defailement [in 1612]; this following Treatise shall give satisfaction to all indifferent Readers, how the business hath bin carried: where no doubt they will easily understand and answer to their question, how it came to passe there was no better speed and success in those proceedings.
