

We were sitting on the deck of Captain Dan's sailing yacht, the Toucan, in the colorful waters over a coral reef in Placencia, Belize when photojournalist Ellis Stevens began to share his amazing story about his adventure with an old treasure buried in Mexico. I knew at once that it had to be written. It took more than a year to gain his approval. This book represents my best recollection of a few days in the summer of 2005 listening to my old friend share his secret experiences about a treasure buried in the 1880s on a mountain outside of Culiacan, one-third of the way down Mexico's west coast. We couldn't believe what we heard. It sounded like a Hollywood story. If I told you it was true would you believe me?
